5 more Things to do with Westminster CU Eulina Clairmont

1

The Happiness Museum

Explore happiness as a skill – the workshop will look at compassion, kindness and mindfulness as tools to help us

Create Happiness Ambassadors – who will organise activities with the museum and then teach other classes and year groups.

Happiness Museum wish to offer partner schools free CPD

3

Recycling and Volunteering with Little Lives UK

Little Lives UK have been working on helping underprivileged children to ensure that their education did not suffer due to Coronavirus.

They have been providing devices so that children could access necessary school resources.

They are willing to donate tech to interested schools; We hope to work with them to help children recycle unwanted toys and provide much needed tech.

Rhythm, Poetry and Storytelling

Charlotte Green is an author and has been approved by the Children's University to organise workshops in schools.

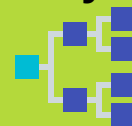

She has already been to over 30 Schools giving poetry and riddles workshops.

This workshops are linked to her first 2 books which consist of animal riddles in verse, and dinosaur workshops linked to her latest book HERBIE AND THE T. REX.

Charlotte's workshops are fun and interactive and she explores voice, timing, place, rhythm, characters

2

Family Ties Filming Project

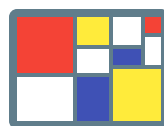

This film project sets to record and capture the unique bonds diverse families have and how they have contributed to their community. The project will also provide an opportunity for the young people to make a film about the impact that lockdown has had on them.

Students will use tablets that we have resourced from the charity Little Lives UK to shoot, edit, narrate, add music, graphics and learn every aspect of digital film making.

Through hands on, school-based workshops, students will be supported to produce a series of short documentary films which tell their stories and that of their families. They will create a family tree, explain how they got here to the UK, how they are surviving and what impact Lockdown had on them.

NPG and London Police Museum

Two great ,new partnerships
providing outreach and online opportunities

"Look out for lots of new fun to be had in December and don't forget to record your hours."
